

Susan Frayne, M.D., M.P.H. of VA Palo Alto Health Care System's HSR&D Center for Innovation to Implementation (Ci2i) is Professor of Medicine at Stanford University, Director of VA's Women's Health Evaluation Initiative (which analyzes VA data to inform national program development and policy decisions) and Director of VA's Women's Health Practice-Based Research Network (which provides infrastructure for multi-site women's health research). A general internist, she is also Associate Chief of the Women's Health Section at VA Palo Alto Health Care System. Her research examines medical care for women Veterans, with a particular focus on women with post-traumatic stress disorder.

Opening Remarks – Lisa M. Howard, Director, VA Sierra Nevada Health Care System

Time/Location: 11:45am - 12:00pm in the Tahoe Room

Susan Frayne, MD, Director, VA Women's Health Practice-Based Research Network Coordinating Center, VA Palo Alto presents: The VA Women's Health Research Network: Partnering to Expand the Evidence Base for Women Veterans' Health Care

Time/Location: 12:00pm - 1:00pm in the Tahoe Room